

Richard Franklin Pettigrew

Representing the territory of Dakota and the state of South Dakota, Richard Franklin Pettigrew was a prominent member of Congress for fourteen years. He was born in Ludlow, Vermont, on 23 July 1848 and at the age of six, he and his family moved to a farm in Wisconsin. He went to the rural schools in Wisconsin and later attended both Beloit College and the State Law School, located in

Dakota Images

Representing the territory of Dako state of South Dakota, Richard Frankli was a prominent member of Congress f years. He was born in Ludlow, Verm July 1848 and at the age of six, he and moved to a farm in Wisconsin. He went schools in Wisconsin and later attended College and the State Law School, Madison.

In 1869 Pettigrew came to Dakota a chainman on a land surveying paworked in Moody and Brookings consettled in Sioux Falls in 1870, built a and began to practice law. As a mem Republican party, he was elected three tupper house of the territorial legislate 1880 the party sent him to Congress as a delegate. With statehood Pettigrew was the United States Senate in 1889 and 1895, an office that he held until Malthough a delegate to the Republican Convention in 1896, he became of organizers of the Silver Republicans Republicans defeated bimetalism. In election his campaign contributed to Sorvoting for the Populist presidential William J. Bryan and the Populist guicandidate Andrew E. Lee.

Senator Pettigrew's most notable of concerned legislation affecting the publicand forest reservations. As an ardent a forest conservation, his legislation affecting the forest in the Black I leaving Congress he returned to Sioux F he died on 5 October 1925. In 1869 Pettigrew came to Dakota Territory as a chainman on a land surveying party, which worked in Moody and Brookings counties. He settled in Sioux Falls in 1870, built a law office, and began to practice law. As a member of the Republican party, he was elected three times to the upper house of the territorial legislature, and in 1880 the party sent him to Congress as a territorial delegate. With statehood Pettigrew was elected to the United States Senate in 1889 and again in 1895, an office that he held until March 1901. Although a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1896, he became one of the organizers of the Silver Republicans when the Republicans defeated bimetalism. In the 1896 election his campaign contributed to South Dakota voting for the Populist presidential candidate William J. Bryan and the Populist gubernatorial

Senator Pettigrew's most notable contribution concerned legislation affecting the public domain and forest reservations. As an ardent advocate of forest conservation, his legislation affected the regulation of the forests in the Black Hills. After leaving Congress he returned to Sioux Falls, where Copyright © 1972 by the South Dakota State Historical Society. All Rights Reserved.

Copyright of South Dakota History is the property of South Dakota State Historical Society and its content may not be copied or emailed to multiple sites or posted to a listsery without the copyright holder's express written permission. However, users may print, download, or email articles for individual use.

All illustrations in this issue are the property of the South Dakota State Historical Society except those on the following pages: pp. 3, 11, 17, 22, 25, from Von Hardesty and John D. Unruh, Jr.; pp. 30, 33, 37, 40, from the Office of Information, Black Hills State College; pp. 42, 51, from Orin G. Libby Collection, University of North Dakota; pp. 48, 54, from the State Historical Society of North Dakota; p. 65, from The Tumbleweed; p. 74, Nickolls teaching a chemical engineering class, from Walter R. Nickolls; Nickolls explaining a fluid flow experiment, from the School of Chemical Engineering, Oklahoma State University, Nickolls directing the operation of a dual effect evaporation, from Otto M. Smith; p. 80, from the Division of Public Information, Oklahoma State University.